

Written transcript of audio recording of Theresa Greenfield on December 22, 2023, as part of the USDA Rural Development in Iowa news release on Climate Fellows.

Iowa ag producers and small business owners are investing in clean energy systems through the USDA REAP program. Their investments are climate smart and will lower their energy costs and I tell you Iowans know every penny counts. These non-partisan positions will help handle the renewable energy portfolio within Rural Development and they'll be focused on helping Iowans build and grow their small businesses.
